SCIENCE ~ ELECTRICITY (as an added extra if you'd like to use this)

This half term we would have been learning about electricity in our Science lessons.

We have found some great links for you to learn from. You'll find information, video clips and games to use. There is no time limit as the topic would have been up until the summer holidays and there is no expectation that this needs to be completed, it is an added extra if you would like it.

As we suspect that you don't have spare crocodile clips, buzzers, bulbs, switches and cells at your convenience at home, we hope that these links will be the next best thing.

Here is the main electricity and conductors page on BBC Bitesize.

https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/z2882hv there are 3 learner guides and 11 clips.
